1215 - 1315 hrs	Future Skills: Jobs for Masses
	The future of jobs in 2022 in India will be determined by the country's response to the inevitable impact created by the interplay of three primary forces - globalization, demographic changes and the adoption of Industry 4.0/exponential technologies by Indian industries. FICCI and E&Y had published the "Future of Jobs" report. This report provides a vision of change for the job market in India over the next few years. It has a view that various primary forces such as globalization, demographics, and Industry 4.0, are expected to have on the key sectors of the economy. It also provides an overview of the projected job creation rates that 9% new jobs and 37% jobs that would have radically changed skill sets will emerge in coming years. This session will witness deliberation on how India could leverage the existing dividend to provide employment to the workforce instead of inevitable challenges that 12 to 13 million of youth joining workforce every year and adoption of exponential technologies by industries like AI, IOT, Big data, cloud computing etc.

1430 -1530 hrs	Reskilling and Upskilling for Gainful Migration (Domestic & International)
	Migration and human development is intimately related both within the national boundaries and across the national borders. According to the census 2001 about 307 million person have been reported as migration by place of birth. Out of them about 259 million (84.2%), migrated from one part of the state to another, 42 million (2%) from outside the country. Migration is mostly driven by distress circumstances and is a form of livelihood strategy, 14.7 migrations happened because of the employment opportunities. There are many drivers for outward migration, however the key reasons include low wages, growing working-age population, and low employment generation rate. Over 60% of the Indian migrants travel in search of higher wages to the Middle East: 41% of them are employed in the construction sector, 32% in the retail sector, 11% as domestic help, 9% work in the manufacturing industry, and the remainder engage in jobs in other industries. The demand of Indian labour force is increasing in international market because of the low wages and it would increase in near future. Migrants are not aware of the immigration process from India and get to the airport without proper documentation, leading to being sent back home at times. No real handholding is done and no information is provided to migrants on requirements of travel. They arrive at their destination with no lingual training and have no idea on how to proceed as they do not understand the signage and feel lost. The session will discuss the significance of Reskilling and Upskilling of the migrants and in which direction India should move ahead to protect and develop the gainful migration.

1530 - 1545 hrs	Presentation on ‘Recent Initiatives By The World Bank’ by: Ms Shabnam Sinha , Sr Education Specialist ,The World Bank
1545 - 1645 hrs	Mainstreaming Apprenticeships

	Apprenticeship has been adopted as a major skill development intervention to provide larger employment opportunities to the youth. This has been a successful model, practiced widely in countries leading to higher employability. The National Policy of Skill Development and Entrepreneurship 2015, launched by the Hon'ble Prime Minister on 15th July, 2015, focuses on apprenticeship as one of the key programmes for creating skilled manpower in India. Recognizing the value of on-the-job training. Since the conception of the Apprentices Act 1961, several initiatives have been undertaken over the years to simplify the Act and make it industry friendly, yet the apprenticeship opportunities in the country are insignificant when compared to the size of the economy. To promote apprenticeship and to incentivize employers who wish to engage apprentices, MSDE launched the National Apprenticeship Promotion Scheme (NAPS) on 19th August 2016. NAPS has a provision to share expenditure incurred on both apprenticeship training and stipend paid to the apprentices. This session will throw light to make apprenticeship training more appealing and to tap the huge potential for reaching a tenfold increase in the training numbers in the coming years there is an urgent need to open up the system to curb the challenge of unemployment.
